Leadership and courage

“It is not the critic who counts;
not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done them better.

The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena;
whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood;
who strives valiantly;
who errs and comes up short again and again;
who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotions,
and then spends himself in a worthy cause.

Who, at the very best, knows the triumph of high achievement; and who at worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who knew neither victory nor defeat.”

– Theodore Roosevelt
